World Migratory Bird Day 2022 celebration in October organized by HIMPUS (Poultry Lovers Association) Veterinary Medicine students at Syiah Kuala University, Banda Aceh, Indonesia. Implemented with various awareness activities that focus on community awareness and approaches to children in Aceh, Indonesia.

HIMPUS seeks to apply the growing awareness from an early age to the community to love the environment for the sake of preserving migratory birds in the world. HIMPUS carries out this celebration with great enthusiasm to jointly protect the population and their habitat. It can be seen from some of the activities carried out by children in schools who are the targets of HIMPUS in celebration of the 2022 WMBD. The children who sit in school are very interested in the new knowledge presented about migratory bird species that they may only know about at this time.

The celebration of World Migratory Bird Day 2022 in October began with a kindergarten coloring competition held at Bungong Seulepouk Early Childhood School in Banda Aceh on October 1, 2022. This competition aims to introduce migratory bird species with the fun of coloring for children.

Winners of the competition will receive trophies, certificates of appreciation and stationery equipment. The children who took part in this competition were very happy and learned about the migratory birds that were introduced.

The celebration of World Migratory Bird Day 2022 in October was followed by outreach to several schools by visiting one of the elementary and high schools in Aceh. This socialization activity was first carried out at the 57 syiah Kuala State Elementary School, on October 3, 2022. This socialization was an effort to introduce migratory birds and efforts to protect migratory birds in Aceh.

Furthermore, the school visit was held at the MAN 4 Banda Aceh high school on October 14, 2022.

Other celebration activities were carried out by distributing stickers around the campus and Banda Aceh City, targeting students and local communities in Aceh. This distribution is an approach for the general public to recognize and participate in the celebration of World Migratory Bird Day.

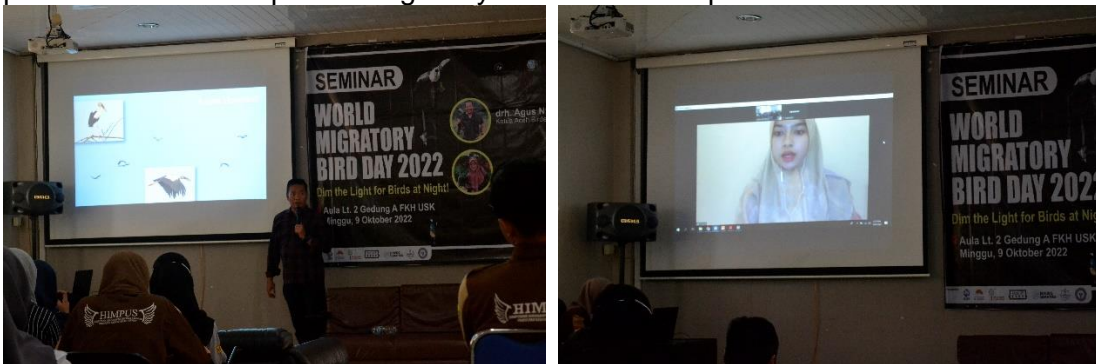

The highlight of the celebration of World Migratory Bird Day 2022 in October is the Seminar with the theme “Dim the lights for Birds of Night” and Birdwatching which will be held on October 9, 2022. The seminar takes place in the Hall of the Faculty of Veterinary Medicine, Syiah Kuala University. This seminar was presented by two speakers who are experienced in birds and conservation, namely: drh Agus Nurza, M.Si and drh. Rosalia, M. Anim. Sc.,

dr. Agus Nurza, M.Si. He is a bird watcher in Aceh, Indonesia and the founder and chairman of the AcehBirder bird organization. He introduced and at the same time shared his experience in migratory bird conservation and introduced migratory birds to the problem of light pollution on the journey of migratory birds.

The second speaker is drh. Rosalia, M. Anim.Sc. is a lecturer and alumni of The University of Queensland, Australia. He shared his experiences when carrying out migratory bird conservation activities in Australia. The experience is intended to raise public awareness to protect migratory birds which is a problem at this time.

The speakers focused on raising public awareness to try to protect migratory birds in Aceh with various experiences and introducing efforts that could be done by the community and young people in Aceh, Indonesia.

After the seminar was successful, the next activity was Birdwatching and Monitoring the Habitat of Migratory Birds in Aceh, at Ulee Lheue Beach, Aceh. The activity took place in the afternoon guided by drh. Agus Nurza, M.Si. During the activity, several migratory bird species were found on the beach, namely Far Eastern Curlew (Numenius madagascariensis) and Dunlin (Calidris alpina) species.

This birdwatching activity is a monitoring of migratory bird habitat as well as to introduce one of the migratory bird habitats in Aceh.
